

ATTACK & RELEASE

ATTACK is how quickly the compressor responds after the signal exceeds the threshold, controlling how much transient punch passes through.

RELEASE is how quickly the compressor stops reducing gain after the signal falls below the threshold, shaping how aggressive (fast) or smooth (slow) the compression sounds.